Brownlow Manor House in Lurgan, 19th Century Version

The ancient Brownlow landlords built a fortified manor house on this site during the plantation of Ulster.

The Brownlow plantation in Armagh included the town of Lurgan and some outlying parts of the Barony of Oneilland. During the Quaker period before and after 1700, William Brownlow, son of John, lived at Flush Hill in Ballywilly Townland, Parish of Kilmore on the Ballyhagan side of Lurgan. He was an active member of the Ballyhagan Mens Meeting of Quakers. Flush Hill is on the south side of the Red Lion highway intersection, north of Kilmore.

Foreward

This transcription is part of a collection of Northern Ireland records which I accumulated through many years of research. I was motivated to seek out the records after discovering that one of my fifth great-grandmothers was a Lurgan Quaker.

Finding the extracted vital records was not too hard, but I soon learned that the detailed meeting records were apparently available only at the Irish repositories. Finding entries of interest in these records can be a lengthy and tedious ordeal, due to the crabbed hand-written source and a limited index at the repositories. I hope that this transcription and comprehensive index will help others to more easily find ancestors in the minute books, at least for the years included here.

The transcription is intended to serve as a research aid only, and should not be considered a perfect reflection of the source records. The original records should be consulted to verify any entries of importance.

Irish records can be found at the Friends Historical Library in Dublin, the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland (PRONI) in Belfast, and the National Archives in Dublin.

Anyone who is interested in the Ulster Quakers should read the “History of the Religious Society of Friends in Lurgan,” written by Arthur G. Chapman, published in 1997 by Lurgan Friends Meeting (Universities Press, Belfast). This excellent history provided inspiration and guidance for my own studies.

Ballyhagan Mens Meeting Minutes, First Surviving Page,
Entries for 3rd Through 9th Month (May-November) 1705

The pages are center-bound and written on both sides. The damaged first four leafs are missing parts of the right or left side. Even so, I found an ancestor on this very first page (John Stanfield).

Notes:

The manuscript page numbers were apparently added when handwritten copies were made. These manuscripts seem to be copies made in the 19th century to replace the ancient originals.

Old style dates: 1 Mo = March. New year is March 25.
11Mo = January; 12 Mo = February.

Abbreviations and punctuations:

The clerks and/or later copyists often used the letter y to represent the sound th in abbreviating common short words. They added superscripts to the y to represent different words. Similarly, other abbreviations used the first letter of a word, with the omitted part represented in the superscript by one or more letters, or just a mark.

Periods were generally not used in the manuscripts. Sometimes the colon or simicolon appears instead, but more often sentences are strung together. Capitalization is not structured but seems to depend on the ability of the clerk to form letters. Certain letters, such as C and R at the beginning of any word, appear often as capitals. Ballyhagan is often not capitalized. Double letters are used profusely where they would not be doubled today. I attempted to preserve the manuscript spelling and styles where possible, and corrected only a few obvious errors by the clerks and copyists. (J.L. Fisher 2012)
